A thousand years ago, near the Harbor of Skjold (Skjoldehamn), on the Norwegian island of Andøya, an individual fell into a bog. This would have been an unfortunate event at the time, but very lucky for us as the woolen clothing they wore was preserved and discovered in 1936. They subsequently dated the find from 1050 to 1090 CE, or the late 11th century. One of these items that was preserved was a hood that is commonly seen in today's Norse personas. Do not be fooled, however, as the same pattern can be used to create many other European hoods used throughout the SCA.

Topic: Health and Safety
Instructor: Dr. Ken Mondschein
Mon Aug 6, 1:00 PM A&S 13

The SCA, like many other subcultures, has had its #metoo moments lately, but let's face it: The people who need it aren't going to take a consent class. What's more, the problem often isn't out-and-out sexual assault, but small acts that are often dismissed as "not so bad." However, these add up to a culture of consent violation. It's up to all of us to change this. In this training, we'll learn how you can speak up to prevent you know is wrong from happening—even doing uncomfortable things, like bucking the SCA's hierarchical social system, if necessary. We'll talk about consent, of course, but also social strategies, do some roleplaying, and learn what we can all do to prevent sexual harassment and overall creepy behavior.

Bring a ukulele (or modern guitar capo'd on the 5th fret) if you can. A few loaner instruments and capos will be available. Handouts provided while supplies last; additional books $10 (to cover cost).
